the right to vote, Judge Williams made the point of order that such an amendment was not germane to the question, and was overruled. Mr. Oliver made the point of order that under the rules, committees of the House must be appointed by the Speaker, and that there was no provision for the Governor to make appointments. Speaker Cox ruled that the amendment could be legally voted on.

As a parliamentary matter it could be offered, though whether it would be legally effective was a legal question on which the chair was not required to rule. The amendment was rejected, 40 to 29.

The Gregory Amendment.

The vote then recurred on the amendment offered by Mr. Gregory, of New Kent, for a committee of ten, to be made up as follows: "four of whom shall be appointed from the House by its Speaker, and three from the Senate by its speaker, and three by the Governor." On a show of hands this was rejected, 29 to 37. The roll call showed its adoption, 44 to 38, as follows:

Question of State's Honor.

Mr. Gordon objected that the House had taken no time to consider the originitas honor, he would vote as large a sum as any man, but he did not consider it right to vote the peoples meney for a junket, and then invoke the dignity of the State to shield such an action. He moved to amend by inserting that no part of the appropriation should be spent for junketing purposes. It would be entirely in keeping with proper dignity to have the satue presented by the American ambassador.
